He can go on stume for Tammany Hall, show he was nominated by the Fusionrequest of the Mayor, and was then dropped because he did not turn ocratic endorsement. Doubtless this was the end leader Murphy There is an able-bodied belief in Tam circles to the effect that Charles Murphy is going outside the organi President, and the faithful braves ment of Grout and Fornes was ient deference to respectability and the Borough should go to a member Mr. Murphy did not add to the cor fort of his followers when he reached Tammany Hall to-day. They expected him to deny it. He did not deny it, ch implies that he will probably pick his candidate from the outside. The Tammany men figure that if he had an organization man in mind he would say As a matter of fact, it is believed that the borough and county slates have not been made up, although the convention is but two days away.

He Will Be a Democrat. When Mr. Murphy was asked about the truth of the report that he would go outside the organization he replied that the nominee would be a Democrat and that was all he would say. The real reason for the feud between Tammany and Hugh McLaughlin has been revealed. It dates back to the outing of Congressman "Tim" Sullivan at which Bird S. Coler, of Brooklyn, was At this outing "Big Tim" suggested the nomination for Comptroller to Coler, who said that he wanted six hours for deliberation and consultation with his friends. At the end of six hours he sent word to Sullivan that McLaughlin refused to let him take the nomination. McLaughlin had another candidate and he wanted Tammany to take him up. Tammany refused. McLaughlin tried to force his point and Murphy sent word to him that he could take his organization and go away from here with it or words to that effect. That is why

The Solomon children live with their father and mother at No. 66 Willoughby street, Brooklyn. Across the street lives Alice Shrubb, a girl of seven, who is the "kttle mother" for all the children on the block.

Some days ago Alice was playing in the rear of Westerman's grocery store at No. 58 Willoughby street when she came upon some nice looking sweet crackers. The crackers were on the floor and appeared to have been dropped by one of the grocery clerks. The little girl ran to the street with her find and heir nurse, Esther Klein.

"Don't you want some good crackers?" the little girl asked, and without waiting for an answer she broke one of the crackers in half and gave it to the children. The other cracker she gave to
